

Legal Title Report

The title to 25 Tower View, Chartham, Canterbury CT4 7TQ is freehold. It is registered with Land Registry under title number K878283. The current legal owner is Trevor Stanley Davis who purchased the property for £210,000 on 15 June 2007.

The address for service, which is the address notified to the Land Registry as being the correspondence address of the registered proprietor, is 25 Tower View, Chartham, Canterbury CT4 7TQ. You should bear in mind that this will only be updated when the proprietor changes address if he/she informs the Land Registry.

Boundaries

The Land Registry Title Plan shows the approximate position of the boundaries of the property edged in red. You should note that the Land Registry plan is indicative only and not definitive. In the absence of any other evidence, where the physical boundaries are clearly marked on the ground for example with fences, ditches or hedges then in the absence of any other evidence and provided they are roughly in line with the boundaries on the title plan you should assume that these are legal boundaries.

The title deeds indicate that the boundaries are joint or “party” boundaries and that responsibility for repair and maintenance is shared between you and your neighbour.

Rights / Easements

As well as the land and the buildings upon it the property also includes certain rights over other land. These are detailed in the following areas:

- ⌚ Transfer dated 30 September 2004 at Schedule 1.

These include:

- ⌚ A right of way over the estate roads;
- ⌚ Rights to use the services (drains, electricity cables etc) serving the property where they cross other land;
- ⌚ Rights to enter onto adjoining land where necessary and on giving reasonable notice to inspect, maintain and repair your property;
- ⌚ A right of support from adjoining properties so that they cannot be demolished so as to cause your property to be at risk if collapse;
- ⌚ A right of overhang for any gutters, eaves and downpipes where they overhang adjoining land and a right for the footings of your property to remain under a neighbour's land;
- ⌚ A right to use the Amenity Lands defined at 13.1.1 of the Transfer for quiet recreation where suitable;
- ⌚ A right to use the accessways and footpaths within the Amenity Lands where necessary for access to and egress from the property;

- ⌚ A right to park one private roadworthy vehicle on parking space numbered 256 on the plan to the Transfer and of vehicular access to and from it;
- ⌚ A right subject to availability to authorise visitors to park for short periods in one of the visitor parking spaces shown on the plan marked “visitor parking spaces” or “V”;
- ⌚ The right to use the refuse stores within the Amenity Lands to dispose of rubbish

Any right to use any communal area or facility is subject to you paying a fair proportion of the cost of maintaining or repairing the same.

You should read these carefully and if you are buying the property you should consider whether they are adequate for your use and enjoyment of the property, i.e. do they include all necessary rights of access to the land etc?

In addition to the rights which benefit the property it is also subject to those contained in Schedule 2 of the 2004 Transfer. You should note that if you obstruct these rights the person(s) with the benefit may seek an Order from the Court either awarding compensation or an injunction. These rights where appropriate mirror those contained in Schedule 1.

Covenants

A covenant is an obligation to perform some action, or refrain from performing some action, on land. Covenants exist in addition to the normal planning and other laws and are usually imposed by the original land owner when a property is built. They relate to such things as what development activity can be carried out on the land, responsibility for maintaining boundary features etc.

There are two types of covenant, positive (an obligation to perform some action such as carry out repairs or pay some money) and negative (a restriction on performing some action such as making alterations or keeping pets). Whether the words of the covenant specify or not, negative covenants “run with the land”, meaning they bind future owners, unless it is clear they are personal covenants and not intended to bind future owners. The burden of a positive covenant does not run with the land however – it can only bind the original covenantor. For this reason, where there are positive covenants, particularly a covenant to pay a regular sum of money such as an estate maintenance charge, there will be a covenant obliging the seller to ensure that the buyer enters into a new covenant to pay the money and a restriction on the title preventing a purchase being registered until the buyer has entered into the covenant.

The covenants which affect this land are contained in the following areas:

- ⌚ Schedule 3 of the 2004 Transfer;
- ⌚ Schedule 4 of the 2004 Transfer

These include (but this list is not exhaustive):

- ⌚ No more than one home shall be erected on the land together with a garage and the usual domestic outbuildings at any one time;

- ⌚ The land and buildings upon it shall be used only as a private residential dwelling;
- ⌚ Not to do or allow to be done anything on the land or the parking space or the Amenity Lands which may or grow to become a nuisance, annoyance or inconvenience or which may lessen the value of the properties on the estate;
- ⌚ You may not erect any gate, fence, wall or other means of enclosure on the land but you may retain any added by the developer at the time of construction;
- ⌚ You must not park any caravan, trailer, boat or commercial vehicle between the building line of the dwellinghouse erected on the land and the road or footpath to which it has frontage;
- ⌚ You must not remove maim or damage any tree or shrub on the land and you must replace any tree or shrub that might die;
- ⌚ You must not change the colour of the exterior of the property including any doors or windows;
- ⌚ You must not make any external additions or alterations to the property or erect any buildings on the land without the prior consent of the Transferor under the 2004 Transfer whose consent shall not be unreasonably withheld;
- ⌚ You must not erect any sign or notice board on the property save that after 12 months from the date of the Transfer you may erect a single "For Sale" or "To Let" board;
- ⌚ You must not erect any structure within 3 metres of the centre line of any sewer or drain which is or is intended to be adopted by the water authority without the prior written consent of that authority;
- ⌚ You must not obstruct any roads, footpaths or accessways on the estate;
- ⌚ You must not allow any of the parking spaces on the estate to be used by anyone other than an occupier of any property on the estate or any visiting such an occupier;
- ⌚ You must not use the Amenity Lands for any purpose other than quiet recreation;
- ⌚ You must not erect any aerial or satellite dish or other receiving equipment anywhere on the exterior of the property;
- ⌚ You must keep the exterior of the property in good and substantial repair and you must decorate the exterior at least once every three years;
- ⌚ When you sell the property you must ensure that the new owner enters into a deed of covenant in the form set out in Schedule 9 of the Transfer;
- ⌚ You must ensure that any new owner applied to become a member of the estate management company;
- ⌚ You must ensure that any new owner applies to become a director of the management company if required by the company;
- ⌚ You must not while ever you are the owner of the property resign from the management company
- ⌚ You must pay the estate maintenance charge which is charges by the management company company in connection with the maintenance of the Amenity Lands and parking areas;
- ⌚ You must comply with any future regulations made by the management company in respect of the Amenity Lands and parking areas;
- ⌚ You must become a member of the management company and if required, a director or secretary of the company;

These covenants benefit the management company and the owners for the time being of the properties on the developer's new build estate, which should be apparent from the plan attached to the 2004 Transfer.

You should read the covenants carefully and consider whether they will affect your use and enjoyment of the property and whether any of them may have already been breached. Failure to comply with a covenant can lead to the beneficiary taking legal action, including seeking an award for compensation or an injunction preventing the breach from continuing.

Restrictions

A restriction is an entry in the Proprietorship Register which protects a third party interest by preventing a change of ownership and/or mortgage from being registered without certain conditions, which are generally set out on the restriction, being complied with.

In this case there is a restriction which requires a certificate of compliance to be obtained from either the seller or the estate management company (or its solicitors) that the provisions of Schedule 9 of the enclosed Transfer dated 30 September 2004 have been complied with. This requires the new owner to enter into a Deed of Covenant with the original builder and the estate management company in the form set out in Schedule 9. Once this is done either the management company, its solicitors or the sellers (usually via their solicitors) will need to produce a letter addressed to Land Registry confirming that the terms of the restriction have been complied with.
